

WHU-Otto Beisheim

School of Management

Vallendar, Germany

The WHU-Otto Beisheim School of Management in Vallendar, Germany is ranked among the very best business schools in Europe. WHU is a private school that offers three programs as part of the European Union's Bologna Agreement: A three-year bachelor degree program, a two-year masters program, and a doctoral degree program. We also offer an MBA program.

Companies are looking for university graduates who have an international education, practical experience, and are accustomed to working in teams since WHU has established a privately sponsored university-level management program. Its students are trained for the demands of management in a tightly organized, multinational educational program.

Texas A&M University (TAMU) business students will have the opportunity to study for one semester at WHU, in Vallendar, Germany. You could receive up to 12 hours of elective course credit toward your Texas A&M degree. Elective courses can be taken in Accounting, Finance, Human Resources, Marketing, Management, MIS, Operations, and International Business. Fluency in German is not required since most courses (approximately 80%) will be taught in English. Courses in general Business Administration that integrate all aspects of management are also available. These courses are similar to business policy or strategy courses offered at Texas A&M University.
